Castroville, Medina County, Texas.

Owner: Sebastin Marty

Date of Erection: 1880-

Architect: Unknown

Builder: Joseph Carle

Present Condition: Good

Number of Stories: Two

Materials of Construction: Native limestone, cypress, cottonwood, and walnut.

Other Existing Records: None

Additional Data:

This building was built in the 1880's by Joseph Carle, for a residence and a store, and was used as such until the early part of the twentieth century. It is now owned and operated by Sebastin Marty, who married a Carle girl.

The house is built of native limestone, with cypress, cottonwood, oak and walnut woodwork, with cypress predominating. The building consists of three rooms, a merchandise store room, a large hall and two porches on the rear on the first floor. On the second floor there are four rooms, a hall, and a Monterey, type balcony swung on wrought iron brackets on the front. The architecture is primarily French provincial, but the balcony gives it a decided Monterey appearance.

This information was furnished by Sebastin Marty of Castroville, Texas.
